

Interhospital Rounds December 2015

Presented By:

The Association of Academic Professionals in Obstetrics and Gynaecology,
Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists of Canada,
University of Toronto Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology

Dr. Fedde Scheele, MD, PhD

Professor in Health Systems Innovation and Education

Presentation:

Preparing the 21st Century Physician

Friday, December 4, 2015, 8:00 – 9:00 A.M.

Toronto Marriott, Downtown Eaton Centre
525 Bay Street, Toronto
Salon CD

Educational Objectives:

Health systems innovations and new educational scientific insights, including the new CanMEDS 2015 document are a challenge to adapt in our training routines for the 21st century gynecologist. Curriculum change is ahead and the Dutch BOEG program ObGyn training is used as a document for discussion. Let's review what is going on in the modernization of our residency training and ask ourselves what are the focus points for the new future and how to get there. An overview of relevant health systems innovations will be connected to educational innovations resulting in a to-do list for the near future. A short reflection on change management will be discussed.

The objectives of the session are:

- Shift from knowledge acquisition to knowledge application
- address the full spectrum of societal needs by supporting competence in all the CanMEDs roles
- Build flexibility into training and post licensure education to respond to technological and societal changes
- Include physician wellbeing and work-life balance